TABLE OF CONTENTS

FOREWORD ........................................... 9
By Damien Gerard

FAIRNESS AND COMPETITION .......................... 15
By Commissioner Margrethe Vestager
I. Competition and fairness .......................... 15
II. Striking the right balance with dominant companies .......................... 16
III. Exclusivity rebates .............................. 17
IV. Qualcomm ........................................ 17
V. The Intel judgment ................................ 18
VI. Internal documents as evidence .................. 19

FAIRNESS IN COMPETITION LAW AND POLICY ........ 21
By Juliane Kokott and Daniel Dittert
I. The procedural aspects of fairness in competition cases .............. 22
II. The substantive aspects of fairness in competition cases ............. 24

HOW TO AVOID A FAIRNESS PARADOX
IN COMPETITION POLICY ............................... 27
By Maurits Dolmans and Wanjie Lin
I. Fairness: An imprecise moral concept .......................... 30
II. Objectives: “Fairness” versus “consumer welfare” as goals of competition policy ........................................ 38
III. Benchmark: “Fairness” versus “effects” and “competition on the merits” as criteria to discern infringement .......................... 47
A. Competition on the Merits .................................. 52
B. Effect on Competition ..................................... 56
C. Exploitative Abuses ..................................... 59
D. FRAND – Fair, Reasonable and Non-Discriminatory .................. 61
IV. Fairness versus proportionality as a benchmark for outcomes and remedies ........................................ 63
Table of Contents

V. Due process and the rule of law ensure fairness in competition enforcement ......................................................... 67
VI. Conclusion ........................................................................................................................................................................... 74

"FAIRNESS" IN COMPETITION LAW: NOTHING MORE THAN A FEEL-GOOD EPIPHET? ....................................................... 77
By Thomas Lübbig
I. Fairness as a legal term (Germany) ................................................................................................................................. 80
II. German competition law: a smorgasbord of undefined terms in which fairness as a substantive term of legal analysis would be yet another ..................................................................................................... 81
III. Use in communications by the FCO .............................................................................................................................. 82
IV. Review of the “equity” of pricing, notably of utilities (German Civil Code, German Antitrust Act) ....................... 82
V. Examples of reviewing “inequitable” behaviour in abuse cases ........................................................................................... 83

UNFAIR COMMERCIAL PRACTICES AND FAIR COMPETITION .. 85
By Jules Stuyck
I. Unfair competition law .............................................................................................................................................................. 88
II. Unfair commercial practices ........................................................................................................................................................ 91
III. Fairness beyond the law: ethical rules ................................................................................................................................. 96
IV. Unfair contract terms: fairness by restoring the balance ................................................................................................. 97
V. Unfair trading practices: the same objective ....................................................................................................................... 99
VI. Fairness in commercial relations ......................................................................................................................................... 103
VII. One competition law? .............................................................................................................................................................. 104
VIII. Some further thoughts on fairness in market law ........................................................................................................... 106

REGULATING E-COMMERCE THROUGH COMPETITION RULES: A FAIRNESS AGENDA? ....................................................... 109
By Helen Jenkins and Aline Blankertz
I. Dimensions of fairness ................................................................................................................................................................. 111
II. Procedural fairness: trust and transparency .......................................................................................................................... 113
   A. Transparency in platform-to-business transactions ..................................................................................................... 114
   B. Trust through reputation systems ....................................................................................................................................... 115
III. Distributive fairness: sharing gains fairly .......................................................................................................................... 118
   A. Differentiated prices ................................................................................................................................................................. 118

6
BRULANT
Table of Contents

B. Unfair prices

---

IV. Conclusion: the relationship between fairness and efficiency

---

"FAIRNESS" IN ARTICLE 102 TFEU

By Pinar Akman

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I. Fairness and ordoliberalism</td>
<td>131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II. EU case law</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>III. Notions of “fairness”</td>
<td>139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A. In General</td>
<td>139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. Contract Law</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. The Similarity of Fairness Notions in Contract Law with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Article 102 and its Implications</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Inequality of Bargaining Power</td>
<td>151</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Duress, Economic Duress and Undue Influence</td>
<td>154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(a) Duress and Economic Duress</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(b) Undue Influence</td>
<td>158</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. EU Consumer Law</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Unfair Contract Terms</td>
<td>162</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Unfair Commercial Practices</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ADMINISTRABILITY OF FAIRNESS STANDARDS BY COURTS

By Marc van der Woude

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I. Legality review</td>
<td>174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II. Unlimited jurisdiction</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>